

Rehab Radio Bingo a Clear Winner

REHAB RADIO BINGO HAS BEEN A GREAT SUCCESS ON LOCAL radio stations around Ireland. Hundreds of thousands of euro have been given away in prize funds and the game has proved popular with players of all ages.

Games are played every weekday, with a daily prize of €300 on offer. There's a jackpot of €3,000 each week and, if it's not won, it increases by €500 and rolls over until it is won.

One lucky family from Athy recently completed a hat trick of wins with Rehab Radio Bingo and Kfm in Kildare. Tracey Perse scooped the jackpot prize of €13,200 a few weeks after her mother had won €1,000. Not only that, but her aunt matched the jackpot just a few months earlier. ■

Did you know?

- Bingo originates from an Italian game – “Lo Giuocu del Lotto D’Italia” – which has been played since the 1500’s.
- It spread to France as “Le Lotto”, played by wealthy Frenchmen in the late 1800’s and on to Germany, where children played it for educational purposes.
- It arrived in America in 1929 as “Beano” because players would place a dried bean over the numbers matched on their card.
- A New York toy salesman, Edwin S. Lowe, came across the game and realised its potential.
- At a party to trial Lowe’s new $1 game, a player called out “Bingo!” and the name stuck. Today, it is also popular online.
